

Review of Narrative Writing: Draft Day Continued

BibleMouse.com

Reflecting on Our Personal Narratives

Name: _____

Date: _____

Answer the following questions based on this week's lesson about narrative writing and conclusions.

1. What should a strong narrative conclusion provide?

- A. A summary of events
- B. Insight into personal growth
- C. New characters

2. How can a conclusion reveal personal growth? Give an example from your own narrative.

3. According to Proverbs 3:3-4, we should bind kindness and truth around our ____.

4. A memorable story ending should only focus on what happened during the events.

- True False

5. What was challenging about writing your narrative? Describe one specific challenge you faced.

6. What is one technique you learned this week to improve your narrative writing?

- A. Using more dialogue
- B. Adding more characters
- C. Focusing less on details

7. Writing on the tablet of your heart means to keep lessons and experiences ____.

8. Crafting a meaningful conclusion is important in narrative writing.

- True False

9. What did you learn about yourself through writing your narrative?

10. Which of the following is NOT a talking point for writing conclusions?

- A. Share what was learned
- B. Connect to larger life lessons
- C. Focus only on the ending events

Answer Key

1. Insight into personal growth 2. A conclusion can show how I changed after the events of my story. For example, I learned to be more patient after my experience at camp. 3. neck 4. False 5. I found it difficult to express my feelings clearly. I wanted to make sure my readers understood how much the experience meant to me. 6. Using more dialogue 7. remembered 8. True 9. I learned that I can express my feelings better than I thought. Writing helped me understand my experiences more deeply. 10. Focus only on the ending events